

For our next issues, we've gone for Big Themes, which you can interpret in any way that grabs you, in relation to any media – as long as they relate to some aspect of film, media, or e-media study, or the debates around them. We've given you some starting point keywords – but we know you'll have far more interesting ideas. And we're not just after articles – you can send artwork, photography, magazine spreads, or even just ideas about the sorts of stuff you'd like to read in MediaMag. See below for details.

SEPTEMBER:

Drama

Deadline: 14th May 2009

soap melodrama

romance western

crime Bond action

adventure news

history cross-platform

dramadoc sport

gaming fashion

real life stardom

DECEMBER:

Reality

Deadline: 14th September 2009

realism

representation

reality TV

documentary

reportage docudrama

news journalism

photography celebs

politics

FEBRUARY:

Fantasy

Deadline: 9th November 2009

Who Heroes

Galactica superheroes

Watchmen Being

Human magic

games SF comics

Red Dwarf

utopia dystopia

vampires aliens

APRIL:

Humour

Deadline: 8th February 2010

What makes you laugh?

Stand-up sitcom

satire surrealism

black comedy Boosh

Brand cartoons

Simpsons funny

films

Writing for MediaMag

Once you've found your inspiration:

- Mail us with a brief outline of your ideas well in advance of the appropriate deadline – to jenny@englishandmedia.co.uk. We'll get back to you within a few days.
- Check the notes for contributors on the MediaMagazine website.
- Send us your articles ahead of the appropriate deadline – making sure you tell us who you are!
- Please don't embed any images in written articles, but mail them separately as hi-res jpegs.

English & Media
Centre