Two posts are listed here. If you wish to apply for both, then please indicate this at the top of your letter of application. If you are applying for both posts, then you should write your application with the EMC Research and Project Lead post in mind.

Please note that each post has a different application deadline.

English & Media centre

EMC Research and Projects Lead

A 3-day a week post for one year in the first instance, with the possibility of becoming a permanent post.

Start date: 19th April 2022

Location: Islington, North London

Salary: Up to UPS3, plus London weighting

The English and Media Centre is looking to recruit for a consultant post with responsibility for research and projects. The post is on a part-time basis (0.6 per week) and for a one-year in the first instance, with the possibility of it becoming permanent.

The successful candidate will be an experienced English and/or media teacher, currently working in a school, with a proven track record and a commitment to the English and Media Centre's vision and mission.

They will be able to demonstrate the potential to fulfil all of the post-holder responsibilities, as listed below.

Post-holder responsibilities

- Co-ordinate the following in relation to EMC research and projects:
 - Recruiting and liaising with schools involved in research and projects
 - Working alongside teachers on research and projects
 - Initiating writing bids to fund additional research and projects
 - Disseminating research and project work in writing and through CPD and presentations
 - Developing plans for an EMC research and project portfolio
 - Mentoring and working closely with EMC Research and Project secondment teacher
- Contribute to additional EMC activities, as directed.

This is a new post and so offers the potential to take the English and Media Centre's work in new and exciting directions.

We are keen to develop a team that is reflective of the school communities we work with and so welcome applications by teachers from diverse and historically under-represented backgrounds.

We would like to point out that a current member of the EMC team has expressed an interest in this post, so there will be an internal candidate.

If you are interested in this post then please submit a letter of application, no more than one side of A4 long, plus an up-to-date CV.

CLOSING DATE FOR APPLICATIONS: MONDAY 24TH JANUARY

INTERVIEWS: WEEK BEGINNING 31ST JANUARY

PLEASE EMAIL YOUR APPLICATION BY THE DEADLINE TO ANDREW (andrew@englishandmedia.co.uk).

EMC Research and Project Secondment Post

A 2-day a week post for one year in the first instance, with the possibility of an extension for an additional year.

Start date: 1st September 2022

Location: Islington, North London

Salary: Up to M6, plus London weighting

The English and Media Centre is looking to recruit a practising teacher for secondment on a part-time basis (0.4 per week) for one year in the first instance, with the possibility of an extension for an additional year. The teacher will work closely with the Research and Projects Lead Consultant.

This post is particularly suitable for an English and/or Media teacher relatively new to the profession, who is looking to develop their pedagogy in ways that are aligned with the English and Media Centre's vision and mission. Ideally the teacher will remain working in a school on a 0.6 per week basis during the time they are on secondment.

The successful applicant will be able to demonstrate the potential to fulfil all aspects of the post-holder role, as listed below.

Post-holder role

- Co-ordinate the following in relation to EMC research and projects:
 - Working alongside teachers on research and projects
 - Assisting in writing bids to fund additional research and projects
 - Assisting in the dissemination of research and project work in writing and through CPD and presentations
 - Working closely with EMC Research and Project Lead Consultant.
- Contribute to additional EMC activities, as directed.
